

Table of Contents

Topic	Page
Foreword: Dr. James E. Ysseldyke, University of Minnesota	i
Acknowledgements	iv
About the Author	vi
Chapter 1: Background and Context to RtI: Laws, Models, and Evidence-based Blueprints	1
Background and Context to RtI: Laws, Models, and Evidence-based Blueprints	3
The RtI Instruction and Response Model	6
A Positive Academic Supports and Services (PASS) Blueprint	14
The Importance of Effective Instruction and Academic Curricula and Interventions	16
An Evidence-based Blueprint for Behavior	18
PBSS and its Further Integration with RtI	23
A Research-based Evaluation of RtI Processes in Reading	25
Summary	29
Chapter 2: The RtI Data-based Functional Assessment, Problem Solving Process	32
The RtI Data-based Functional Assessment, Problem Solving Process	34
Foundations to the SPRINT Process	34
The Data-based Functional Assessment, Problem Solving Process	41
The Data-based Functional Assessment, Problem Solving Process: Expanded	44
Step 1: Reviewing Existing Data, Records, and Student History	45
Step 2: Completing a “Gap Analysis”	50
Relevant/Known, Relevant/Unknown, and Irrelevant Information	50
Identifying Academic or Behavioral Skill Gaps	52
Identifying Replacement Behaviors and Quantifying the Gap	54
Prioritizing Clarified Concerns and Replacement Behaviors	56
Beginning the Functional Assessment Process	57
Step 3: The Development of Hypotheses	64
Expanding the Functional Assessment Beyond the Instructional Environment to Include the Student’s Entire Ecological System	64
The Instructional Environment: Teacher/Instructional Characteristics and Factors	66
Curricular Characteristics and Factors	66
Student Characteristics and Factors	67
The Experiential Domains: Classroom/Peer Characteristics and Factors	67
School/District Characteristics and Factors	68
Family, Neighborhood, and Community Characteristics and Factors	68
Causal versus Correlational Hypotheses across the Six Ecological Domains	69
Generating Hypotheses in Students’ Six Ecological Domains	73
Step 4: Assessing to Confirm or Reject Hypotheses	79
The Development of Prediction Statements	80
The Development of Assessment Questions	84
Conducting the Assessment	87
Using and Analyzing Data to Confirm or Reject Hypotheses	90
Summary	96

Topic	Page
Step 5: Designing Interventions and Writing the Intervention Plans	96
Scientific-, Evidence-, and Research-based Interventions	97
Linking Functional Assessment to Strategic Interventions	98
Identifying Strategic Interventions within the SPRINT Data-based, Functional Assessment, Problem-Solving Process	100
Prioritizing and Planning Strategic Interventions	102
The Academic or Behavioral Intervention Plan	105
Step 6: Implementing the Intervention Plan and Process	107
The Role of Consultation in Plan Implementation	111
Involving Other Students in Intervention Implementation	114
Step 7: Formative and Summative Evaluations of the Outcomes	114
Evaluating Student Outcomes	114
Literacy	115
Mathematics	118
Writing/Language Arts	121
Behavioral Outcomes	122
Progress Monitoring versus progress monitoring Academic Outcomes	123
Progress Monitoring for Mastery of Knowledge or Skill Outcomes	126
Progress Monitoring for Speed of Skill Mastery or the Speed of Acquisition Outcomes	128
Progress Monitoring for Fluency or Speed of Production Outcomes	131
Progress Monitoring for Comprehension Outcomes	132
Progress Monitoring for Application, Analysis, Synthesis, and Evaluation Outcomes	133
A Brief Summary	134
Progress Monitoring versus progress monitoring Behavioral Outcomes	136
Summary	137
Chapter Summary	138
Appendix I: A Step-by-Step Outline for the Functional Assessment of Students’ Academic and Behavioral Problems	143
Appendix II: Essential Forms for the Data-based Functional Assessment, Problem Solving SPRINT Process	150
Appendix III: Forms to Facilitate the Training of the SPRINT Data-based, Functional Assessment and Intervention Process	179
Chapter 3: Establishing and Implementing Effective Response-to-Intervention Processes at the District and School Levels: Using Grade-level and Building-level SPRINT Teams	204
Establishing and Implementing Effective Response-to-Intervention Processes at the District and School Levels: Using Grade-level and Building-level SPRINT Teams	206
Response-to-Intervention at the School and District Levels: Knowing What to Know	206
The Three Essential Components of Professional Development: Knowledge, Skills, and Confidence	206
Knowledge	206
Skill	209
Confidence	210
Facilitating Staff Buy-In and Success	211
The Strategic Planning and Organizational Change Process	211
Attending to the Process of Change	216

Topic	Page
Effectively Implementing SPRINT/RtI Processes in Schools and Districts	217
District-level Planning for RtI Implementation	218
Action Area 1: Organizational and Motivational Readiness	218
Action Area 2: District-level Leadership and an RtI Implementation Action Plan	219
Action Area 3: District-Level Implementation	220
School-level Planning for RtI Implementation	221
Action Area 1: Organizational and Motivational Readiness	221
Action Area 2: Developing an RtI Implementation Action Plan and Securing the Implementation Infrastructure	223
Action Area 3: School-Level Implementation	225
Section Summary	230
Grade-Level and Building-Level SPRINT Teams and How They Work Together	230
The Building-Level SPRINT Team	230
The Grade-Level SPRINT Teams	230
Summary	233
The Responsibilities and Training of the Building-level and Grade-Level SPRINT Teams	237
Charge/Mission of the Building-Level SPRINT Team	237
Primary Building-Level SPRINT Team Goals, Objectives, and Outcomes	238
Year-at-a-Glance Agenda for a Monthly SPRINT Team Meeting	239
Revisiting the Readiness and Training Start-up Sequence for Building- and Grade-level SPRINT Teams	241
The RtI/SPRINT Process and SPRINT Team Meeting: Considering Cases from the Effective Classroom to Intervention to Termination	250
The SPRINT Problem-Solving Meeting	257
Revisiting the Need for a SPRINT Operations Handbook	266
Delivering Strategic and Intensive Interventions to Students: Important Dimensions and Possible Configurations	267
Dimension I: Random versus Controlled Student Assignments to “Homeroom” Teachers	267
Dimension II: The Intensity of Student Intervention and Service Need	269
Dimension III: Staffing the Interventions	271
Dimension IV: Service Delivery Options—Time and Focus	274
A Blueprint of Staffing Patterns, Services, and Instructional Timeframes for Students with Different Needs: Elementary School/Literacy Example	276
An Example of How to Configure Staff Instructional Resources	284
Summary	289
Chapter Summary	289
Appendix I: A Staff Contract of Collegial Commitment for Building Collaboration, Positive Climate, and School Success	293
Appendix II: The Project ACHIEVE “Pink Sheet”	297
Chapter 4: The Year-End Articulation Process: The Beginning of the New School Year Starts in April	298
The Year-End Articulation Process: The Beginning of the New School Year Starts in April	300
Overview of the End-of-Year Articulation Process	300
The SPRINT Team’s Committee Membership and its Annual Strategic Planning and (Re-)Organizational Activities	303
The SPRINT Team’s Committee Membership	303
The SPRINT Team’s Annual Strategic Planning and (Re)Organization.	304

Topic	Page
Reviewing the Year’s RtI/SPRINT Case Study Forms	305
The Consultation Referral Audit	305
The “Get-Go” Process	306
Student Briefing Reports	308
Resource Mapping: General, Academic, and Behavioral Intervention Surveys	309
Publishing a School Resource Directory	309
Identifying Resources and Consultants in more Specialized Intervention Areas	310
Summary	312
Appendix I: The SPRINT Team Articulation Action Planning Form	314
Appendix II: School Prevention, Review, and Intervention Team (SPRINT) Consultation Referral Audit Form	325
Appendix III: The Project ACHIEVE/SPRINT Team End-of-the-Year Get-Go/Student Articulation Process	327
Appendix IV: SPRINT STUDENT BRIEFING REPORT	334
Appendix V: School-based Professional Resource Survey	336
Appendix VI: Behavioral Intervention Survey	338
Chapter 5: Coordinating, Facilitating, and Implementing the SPRINT and Response-to-Intervention Process at the State Level	341
Coordinating, Facilitating, and Implementing the SPRINT and Response-to- Intervention Process at the State Level	343
Introduction: A Pragmatic Model to Facilitate the Implementation of the SPRINT/RtI Process at the State Level	343
Strategic Planning and Organizational Development	345
State-Level Planning for RtI Implementation	345
Action Area 1: Organizational and Motivational Readiness and DoE Analysis	345
Action Area 2: State-, Regional-, and District-Level Leadership Networking, Needs Assessment, and State RtI Implementation Action Plan	347
Action Area 3: State-, Regional-, and District-Level Implementation	349
Personnel Identification, Recruitment, and Retention	351
Personnel Identification	353
Recruitment	357
Recruiting Employees	357
Recruiting Consultants	361
Summary	364
Retention	364
Educator Induction Programs	365
Educator Evaluation and Tenure Programs	368
Educator Continuing Professional Development Programs	371
Section Summary	374
Communication, Outreach, and Social Marketing	375
Social Marketing	376
Two Social Marketing Examples	378
Data Management, Evaluation, Outcomes, and Accountability	387
Systemic Outcomes at the Effective Schools Level	389
Specific Outcomes that Define SPRINT/RtI Success	393
Needed State-Level Data-Bases and Data Management Tools	397
SPRINT/RtI Content	401

Topic	Page
Professional Development and Training	408
Professional Development Web Portals	408
Training of Facilitators vs. Training of Trainers	410
Law, Regulation, and Policy	413
Law and Regulation	413
Policy	418
Summary	420
Appendix I: APPRAISE: Action Plan for Project ACHIEVE Implementation Success and Evaluation	421
Appendix 2: The Project ACHIEVE Implementation Integrity Self-Evaluation (PRA^I/ISE) Scoring Sheets	452
Appendix 3: Evaluating the Success of School Improvement—Two Sample Evaluation Protocols	461
Chapter 6: A Sample RtI Organizational Assessment and Implementation Action Plan: A Middle School Case Study	476
A Sample RtI Organizational Assessment and Implementation Action Plan: A Middle School Case Study	478
Introduction	478
Organizational Assessment and Consultation Goals, Expected Outcomes, and Work Plan	479
Brief Background on Lexington Middle School and the Lexington Community School District	479
Documents and Information Reviewed	480
Observations, Meetings, Interviews, and Data Collection/Analysis	482
Analyses of Existing Data	482
Results of Requests for Additional Data	484
School Strengths and Primary Findings	485
Recognition of School Strengths	485
Primary Findings	486
Recommendations	488
District- or Cross-District-Level Recommendations	488
LMS School-level Recommendations	490
LMS Staff- and Student-level Recommendations	493
Student-Level Recommendations	500
Appendices	502
I. Schedule and Activities for September 15-16 and October 6-7 Site Visits to the Lexington Middle School	503
II. Results of the Curriculum and Intervention Resource Survey Completed by the Staff of Lexington Middle School	507
III. Organization, from Kindergarten through 5 th Grade, of the Three-Tiered RtI Approach for Literacy in Lexington Elementary School	510
References	514
Project ACHIEVE Materials	524