ANDY MOGAN
State Delegate Candidate: Montana

Statement 1

What are your qualifications that make you a strong candidate for delegate? What is the most pressing issue in your state? As NASP Delegate, how do you see your role in working with your state association to address this issue?

I have served on the Montana Association of School Psychologists executive council for the past eight years in various capacities – information services chair, treasurer, NASP delegate, crisis response co-chair, and as a member of the credential in & profession standards committee.

My roles have required my to communicate and work with the MASP executive council as well as membership about upcoming events and developments. Being able to communicate effectively with a large number of individuals provides me with the skill set necessary to communicate about NASP positions, goals, and initiatives.

Through the last four years, I have served as Montana’s delegate and as such have been a part of the work in reviewing the standards for the credentialing of school psychologists, principles for professional ethics, standards for graduate preparation of school psychologists, and model for comprehensive and integrated school psychological services, provided feedback on position statements, been a member of the NASP school psychologist of the year awards committee, reviewing NASP’s strategic plan and participated in regularly scheduled regional delegate meetings. Through NASP I have also connected with ETS Praxis and served on a committee in which we reviewed the school psychology licensing exam and utilized resources from the NASP Exposure Project in order to reach out to a tribal college in order to recruit from the under represented Native American population. After four years of participation in NASP’s leadership assembly, I have a much better understanding of NASP’s procedures and the work involved. While working as Montana’s delegate, MASP’s strategic plan has begun to reflect goals that are aligned with NASP’s strategic goals, and I would l like to think I played a small role in that.

I have enjoyed serving as Montana’s delegate the past four years and would like the opportunity to continue to do so.
