How to Get the Most Out of the Exhibit Hall

The Exhibit Hall is one of the most popular features of the NASP convention each year. Exhibitors welcome the opportunity to promote their products, services, and organizations. Visitors are eager to see new products, find helpful intervention materials, and make connections for options that can help students. To maximize your experience, please keep the following ideas in mind:

1. Note the hours that the Exhibit Hall is open for business. Try to schedule times to visit instead of dropping in. The hall has more than 100 booths, so you can spend a great deal of time there at once or visit several times over three days. The hall closes permanently at 1:00 p.m. on Saturday, so don’t delay your visit until the last minute.

2. Please do not venture into the hall to browse before the opening, and leave promptly at the closing unless you are in the midst of placing an order.

3. The hall is busiest at the opening times each day, particularly on Thursday, when certain exhibitors have special giveaways. The smallest crowds tend to be in the hall on Saturday.

4. Review the floor plan and exhibitor descriptions to find your favorites or those that are of particular interest to save time if you need to visit in short time frames.

5. Identify “must see” and “want to see” exhibitors and those from whom you can just pick up information if there is not enough time to visit individual booths. Don’t forget the “Take One Tables” located in the Exhibit Hall.

6. Visit as many booths as you can. Exhibitors are there to assist you, not push their products. Let them know you appreciate their attendance—their financial support is absolutely essential to the success of the NASP convention each year.

7. Please be cognizant of the fact that some materials in the booths may be free and others are for sale at special convention prices. Unfortunately, theft does take place in the Exhibit Hall and is generally the result of confusion about what is free and what is not. Don’t be afraid to ask if you are not sure.

8. Scan your name badge to provide your contact information at the booths of all vendors exhibiting products or services in which you are interested. This will enable vendors to follow up with you after the convention to keep you informed of valuable information about their products and services. Please be aware that all information captured on the registration form, except your home and cell phone numbers, will be included in the code on your name badge. Do not swipe your badge in the booths of any vendors that you do not wish to receive your contact information.

9. Request that bulky literature or samples be mailed to you instead of having to carry them home with you.

Have a wonderful time in the Exhibit Hall. See and enjoy all the new products and services the exhibitors have brought to the NASP convention. A list of organizations exhibiting at the NASP 2016 Annual Convention (those who submitted space applications prior to December 28, 2015) is included on the following pages.

ADDITIONAL NASP BOOTHS

NASP Publications Center

Take advantage of special convention-only savings at the NASP Publications Center! At up to an unbeatable 40% off the list price on NASP publications, you can get tools to help you succeed at the lowest prices of the year. Come browse new and staple titles, such as Best Practices in School Psychology, by Patti Harrison and Alex Thomas, or Understanding, Assessing, and Intervening on Reading Problems (Second Edition), by Laurice Joseph. Give your professional identity a boost with a beautifully embroidered NASP pashmina that is great for warding off the workshop chill. And take your New Orleans memories home with you by picking up a souvenir convention coffee mug or an “I Am a School Psychologist: Ask Me What I Do!” water tumbler.

NASP 2017 Annual Convention in San Antonio, TX (Booth #401)

NASP CONNECT

Be sure to visit the NASP Connect area, located in the La Galeries Foyer on the second floor of the Marriott, to learn about new and ongoing NASP services and resources.
NASP Advocacy Action Center
Take advantage of direct online access to your elected officials. Stop by the Government and Professional Relations section of the NASP Connect area for information about NASP’s advocacy priorities and to take an opportunity to use NASP’s Advocacy Action Center to make your opinions heard on Capitol Hill. Also get practical, free information on key policy issues for school psychologists, parents, and teachers.

NASP Membership
Visit www.nasponline.org to access information about NASP membership and see the host of online resources available to NASP members. Not a member? Join at the convention.

Become a Nationally Certified School Psychologist (NCSP)
Join the ranks of the more than 12,000 school psychologists who have earned the NCSP credential and take advantage of the various benefits, including:
• National professional recognition
• Additional compensation in some states and many school districts
• Increased job flexibility and mobility through streamlined credentialing

Stop by the NASP Connect area to meet National School Psychologist Certification System (NSPCS) board members and staff, learn about the NCSP program, and pick up a new or renewal application.

NASP Committee on Gay, Lesbian, Bisexual, Transgender, and Questioning Issues (GLBTQ) and Multicultural Affairs Committee (MAC)
Committee members will be on hand to answer questions and discuss current activities and initiatives. Resources and handouts promoting cultural competence and responsiveness to the needs of students and families from diverse backgrounds will be available.
