

JOIN US AT THE NASP 2021 VIRTUAL CONVENTION

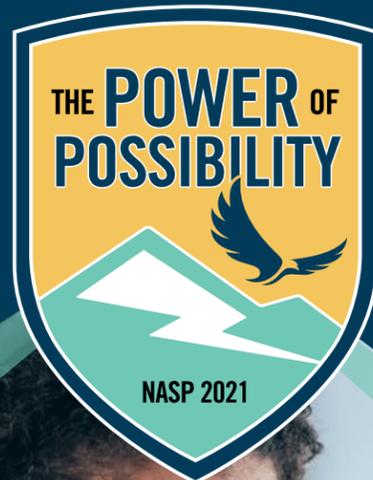

February 23–26, 2021 | Where You Are

NASP 2021 VIRTUAL CONVENTION

February 23–26, 2021
Where You Are

Register by January 27 to SAVE $50
and receive a NASP “Packet of Possibilities”
in the mail.*

SOLVE CHALLENGES TOGETHER, VIRTUALLY

It’s been a tough year, and we’re still in the throes of both COVID-19 and the need for lasting and meaningful progress on antiracist policies and procedures. Refuel your practice and identify solutions for common issues with peers and experts across the country.

- Earn 20+ hours of live, NASP-approved CPD credit
- Access 300 on-demand sessions (30 minutes each) and 300 poster sessions
- Watch sessions at your convenience for 60 days after the convention
- Chat with peers facing similar situations and leave feeling inspired and energized

View CPD guidelines at www.nasponline.org/CPDguidelines. Live sessions qualify for Category A credit. All other sessions, including recordings of live sessions, qualify for Category H credit.

Register by
Jan. 27 to
SAVE $50!

*Details at www.nasponline.org/NASP2021. First 3,000 registrants only.

KEYNOTE ADDRESS

THE POWER OF POSSIBILITY AND PLAY

Wednesday, February 24, 11:15 a.m.–12:45 p.m. EST

Steve Gross, MSW, is the founder of the Life Is Good Kids Foundation, which helps educators and caregivers harness the power of optimism, relationships, and strengths-based approaches to working with children and youth who have experienced adverse childhood experiences. The foundation's Playmakers program empowers children to grow their capacity to see the goodness in themselves, others, and the world; to strengthen their social, emotional, and cognitive capabilities; and to overcome adversity.

AN EVENING WITH ...

DAYNA BOWEN MATTHEW AND JOHN B. KING JR.

Tuesday, February 23, 7:30–8:30 p.m. EST

Dayna Bowen Matthew is Dean of the George Washington University Law School. She is an expert in health equity and public health policy and author of Just Medicine: A Cure for Racial Inequality in American Health Care. John King Jr. is a former United States Secretary of Education and current CEO of The Education Trust. Dr. Matthew and Dr. King will engage in a moderated discussion around equity, education, social justice, and your role as a school psychologist.

EDUCATIONAL SESSION TOPICS

The live and on-demand sessions will cover a variety of ongoing and emerging issues relevant to school psychologists, including:

- Academic assessments and interventions
- Consultation
- Culturally responsive interventions
- Ethics and law
- Family–school collaboration
- Grief and loss
- Mental and behavioral health services
- Resilience in youth
- Social justice and equity issues
- Supporting LGBTQ+ youth
- Trauma-informed care
- Virtual service delivery

STUDENTS AND EARLY CAREER

We anticipate more than 2,000 graduate students, interns, and early career professionals will attend the convention. Take advantage of offerings just for you, including:

- A special registration rate for graduate student members—only $29 through January 27
- Opportunities to meet with prospective employers in the Exhibit Hall
- Opportunities to learn from and engage with other students' poster presentations
- 300 on-demand sessions to watch and supplement your coursework

CONVINCE YOUR SUPERVISOR

Download our customizable letter and talking points, available online, to help you demonstrate to your supervisor how you'll benefit by attending.

- Describe how you'll use your new knowledge to benefit specific cases.
- Highlight the importance of professional development specific to school psychologists, especially as you continue to adapt to changing COVID-19 guidelines.
- Address how the convention will help you meet your CPD requirements for recertification.

QUESTIONS?

Email convention@naspweb.org or call 301-657-0270 ext. 600

www.nasponline.org/NASP2021

